

MODERN THEORIES OF JUSTICE
1996, 535 pages, MIT Press

Contents

I – Introduction: Justice as Justification

1. Justice as Reason in Society: An Overview
 - 1.1. Presentation
 - 1.2. The reason of justice
 - 1.3. The essential equalities of liberties
 - 1.4. Global distributive justice
 - 1.5. Reason and classical solutions
 - 1.6. Organization of content
 - 1.7. A note on references
2. Justice, Liberty, and Equality
 - 2.1. The nature and operation of distributive justice
 - 2.2. Reduction to nonrivalry
 - 2.3. Why equality? Equality as minimal irrationality
 - 2.4. Liberties
 - 2.5. The structure of means and ends
3. The General Structure of Justice
 - 3.1. The just allocation of the human resources
 - 3.2. The field of modern theories of justice
 - 3.3. Synoptic tables

II – Act- and Process-Freedom

4. Act-Freedom
 - 4.1. Freedom to act
 - 4.2. Process-freedom, aim-constraint
5. Full Process Liberalism and Liberal Social Contracts

III – Equalities

6. Second-Best Justice, Human Resources, and Income Justice
 - 6.1. Presentation
 - 6.2. Second-best justice
 - 6.3. Distributive justice and the human resource
7. Equal Liberty and Maximin: Justice and Equity
 - 7.1. Outline
 - 7.2. "Equity" and equal liberty
 - 7.3. Full justice and practical justice
8. Equal Liberties and Maximin: Fairness from Ignorance
 - 8.1. Two sources of morals
 - 8.2. The principles
 - 8.3. Logical difficulties with the principles
 - 8.4. The original position
 - 8.5. Rawls and Kant
 - 8.6. Individuals' motivations
 - 8.7. Culture, pluralism, and toleration

9. Equalities and Liberties

- 9.1. Issues of justice
- 9.2. Basic principles and pure theories of distributive justice
- 9.3. Free interaction from equality
- 9.4. The human resource, the self, and self-accountability
- 9.5. Specific human resourcism and "fundamental insurance"
- 9.6. Responsibility
- 9.7. Equality of opportunities
- 9.8. Theories of exploitation
- 9.9. Equal sharing of natural resources
- 9.10. Productive resourcism
- 9.11. Justice and envy
- 9.12. Maximin in liberty
- 9.13. Other criteria, the egalitarian equivalent

IV – Inequalities, Needs, and Misery

10. Pure Distributive Justice: Comparing and Measuring Unjust Inequalities

- 10.1. A general overview of the topic
- 10.2. Benevolence and rectifiace
- 10.3. Covariation
- 10.4. Concentration
- 10.5. Evaluation functions, equal equivalent, measures and indexes
- 10.6. Averaging and dispatching, linear or affine transformations, preference for mixtures and averages, higher orders, variable populations
- 10.7. Multidimensional inequalities
- 10.8. Conclusion

11. Needs and Misery

- 11.1. The economics of poverty and the poverty of economics
- 11.2. Needs
- 11.3. Measuring poverty: The "progressive deficit" or "weighted head count"

V – Liberties, Morals, and the State

12. Freedom, Morals, Market Failures, and the State

- 12.1. The social theories of process-freedom
- 12.2. The two public economics
- 12.3. Hayek and Friedman: Free market and a minimal-plus State
- 12.4. Private full process liberalism
- 12.5. "Libertarians"
- 12.6. Public choice and Buchanan's constitutional social contract
- 12.7. Morals by agreement
- 12.8. Generally meaningless cardinal utility
- 12.9. Appendix A: Comparison of preference comparisons
- 12.10. Appendix B: The "Nash bargaining or cooperative solution": Logical problem
- 12.11. Appendix C: Equal relative or absolute gains or concessions, the average preferred state

13. Morals, Liberty, the State, and Ethical Motivational Implementation

- 13.1. Theories of publicness
- 13.2. A priori "freedom to" only
- 13.3. The role of morals

13.4. The ways and means of the implementation of social ethics

VI – Utilitarianism and Social Choice

14. Utilitarianisms, Strict and Metaphorical

- 14.1. Meaningless utilitarianism and utilitaromorphisms
- 14.2. Relevant history: Sum of utilities against equality of liberties
- 14.3. Outline of moral problems
- 14.4. A preference-respecting social maximand
- 14.5. The independence (or separability) utilitaromorphism
- 14.6. Risk and justice: Harsanyi's respectful consequentialism or moral-risk neutrality
- 14.7. Interpersonal comparison of preferences
- 14.8. Consequential maximizing bargaining
- 14.9. Efficient independent transferability
- 14.10. Surplus theory and compensation
- 14.11. Social welfare and social income
- 14.12. Appendix: A note on oriental utilitarianism

15. Social Choice Theory

- 15.1. The problem of and with social choice theory in the strict sense
- 15.2. The question of pluralities
- 15.3. Reason and social choice
- 15.4. Equality, liberty, and endogenous values
- 15.5. Informational implementation
- 15.6. From social choice theory to the general theory of justice

VII – Structure and Method

16. The Form, Method, and Situation of Justice

- 16.1. Macrojustice and microjustice
- 16.2. Liberty and equality
- 16.3. Open rational dialectical moral polyarchy
- 16.4. Method, dialogue, and communication
- 16.5. Judging justice, and beyond justice

Bibliography

Index